Announcement on the Holding of the 2024 Q3 Performance Briefing

The board of directors and all directors of the company guarantee that the contents of this announcement contain no false records, misleading statements, or material omissions, and individually and jointly accept legal responsibility for the truthfulness, accuracy, and completeness of its contents.

On November 8, 2024, Henglin Home Furnishing Co., Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as the “Company”) held its 2024 Q3 Performance Briefing via the iFinD Roadshow platform (Tonghuashun). The meeting was conducted in the form of online interactive communication, during which the Company engaged with investors on specific matters regarding its operating results and financial indicators for the third quarter of 2024. The briefing details are announced as follows:

I. Key Questions from Investors and the Company’s Responses

Question 1: What proportion of revenue came from the self-owned brand business in the first three quarters?

In the first three quarters of 2024, the Company achieved revenue of RMB 7.811 billion, a year-on-year increase of 35.24%. Of this revenue, self-owned brand business generated over RMB 4 billion, accounting for more than 51% of total revenue. The Company will continue to focus on its core business and further enhance its competitiveness in the furniture industry.

Question 2: Hello Mr. Wang! If the U.S. imposes additional tariffs, how would that affect the Company?

The Company began investing in the construction of its Vietnam production base in 2018, and after several years of development, it has built a solid foundation in customer resources, production capacity, localized supply chain, workforce quality, and manufacturing technology. Currently, most of the Company’s U.S.-bound business is fulfilled through its Vietnam operations. As clients in the U.S. and Europe increasingly prioritize supply chain security, the advantages of Henglin’s global supply chain layout and premium overseas production capacity are becoming more evident. Orders from the Vietnam base are growing rapidly, helping the Company quickly expand its market share in the U.S..

Question 3: Will interest rate cuts in the U.S. benefit the Company’s business through a positive impact on the real estate sector?

If future interest rate cuts are implemented in the U.S., it is expected to boost the money supply, channel more capital into the real economy, and improve market liquidity. This may in turn stimulate consumer demand in the U.S., increase import demands, and positively impact China’s export trade, thereby benefiting the Company’s business.

Question 4: What caused the decline in gross profit margin in Q3?

The Company's cross-border e-commerce business was impacted by a significant increase in sea freight costs during Q3, compounded by the appreciation of the RMB and exchange rate fluctuations, leading to a temporary decline in gross profit margin. Since July, freight costs have been trending downward. According to recent data, freight from Asia to the U.S. West Coast fell by 19% in October to USD 5,540/FEU, down 32% from the July peak. East Coast freight dropped to USD 5,165/FEU, a 41% decrease from September. As of November 7, the offshore RMB to USD exchange rate was 7.15.

Question 5: The Company's interest-bearing debt and asset-liability ratio have risen rapidly. What measures are in place to address this?

In recent years, to expand the full-category home furnishing segment and develop sales channels for self-owned brands, the Company has appropriately increased its level of debt. However, the overall asset-liability ratio remains within a controllable range, as the Company maintains strict internal controls. With adequate cash reserves, the Company will continue to make rational use of existing funds while ensuring sufficient operating liquidity, optimize its capital structure, enhance financial stability, and support its long-term development.

Question 6: What cost reduction and efficiency improvement measures is the Company implementing?

The Company is fully implementing a centralized supply chain management model, strengthening cost controls, improving supply chain efficiency, and enhancing product competitiveness and profitability. It has also strengthened cost control over selling and administrative expenses, and is accelerating digitalization, mechanization, and intelligent production and management, aiming to improve production and work efficiency while reducing labor costs. In the first three quarters, selling expenses and administrative expenses decreased year-on-year by 1.55 and 1.22 percentage points, respectively.
